

File 20101025.0018: When released, it does something very interesting. It begins to orbit. It takes a long time to settle down to a final low-energy position. We don't have time to wait (accreditations sometimes take years) so we predict the final position.

The envelope is risk tolerance.

References