

File 20090623.1230: Notes from meeting with Dr Martin today:

- I did not get much information as to the specific reason why Dr Levy cannot meet. I can think of at least three conjectures:

1. The letter was not good enough.
2. CESG doesn't want to jeopardise their position as a trusted third party.
3. Ian Levy really doesn't want to talk to me.

Update: Based on email received from Dr Levy, I have a new fourth conjecture: there is something official still going on (see 20090626.2215 for the text of the email).A

- Some retrograde progress (Ian Levy email).
- I reported good progress. Working hard (mostly on small but important things). I feel like I am making good progress toward my goal.
- 'You don't really have a lot of visible progress to show', noted Dr Martin.
- What should I do that's not on my to-do list? (I asked). 'You have enough to do', said Dr Martin.
- TO DO: send a polite email to Ian Levy to jog his memory—make certain (subtly) that he doesn't think I am two different people.
- Next meeting: after reading group on Wednesday. Update: meeting rescheduled for 10:30 a.m. on Wednesday, 1st July 2009, i.e., before reading group instead of after.
