

File 20110725.1832: The developer's systems engineering manager told me in a meeting to pay attention to the earlier report that said that in RM 5.01 certification, the certifier decided to accept the developer's own internal regression testing, as witnessed by Dave Aushman from NSA, without further testing. That is significant. They said they wouldn't do it a second time, but this time they did. Why? Probably because they were out of resources.

I left Deer Creek at 1900 Monday after a long day.

References