

File 20100503.1430: Notes from Kevin Miller's system engineering meeting today at 1400:

The developer expects to receive two formal reports today (3rd May): the first from NSA I173 (subcontracted to the IV&V team in Charleston), and the second from the NSA I733 penetration testers. The I733 report will be much less formal, just a list of their findings. The developer already has seen a spreadsheet of the I173 findings unofficially but they are awaiting the formal report.

Once the developer receives the report, they will review it, prioritise, meet with the government programme office to coordinate their response, and then start work on addressing the findings.

Email Kevin Miller re: seeing the reports when they arrive.
