

File 20090701.1230: Notes from reading group:

- We had a lot of people in attendance this time:
 - Ronald Kainda
 - Dr Martin
 - Dr Fléchais
 - John Lyle
 - Shamal Faily
 - Joe Loughry
 - Cornelius Namiluko
 - Jun Ho Huh
- Shamal asked if I had a good definition of ethnomethodology. I said yes, it's different (from what?) because it studies what people actually do, not what they say they do. It depends heavily on videotaping people at work, then watching those tapes over and over again, noting very small details of their interactions with other people, equipment, and their environment.
