File 20120417.2013: The video at `http://www.datadiode.eu/technology/diode-explained` claims that the Fox Data Diode uses a reliable one-way protocol in its black and red proxy servers. I wonder if it's explained in their certification reports how that protocol works?

References